Equipment Melting Guide

Turn unwanted equipment into Grade Fusion Boxes.

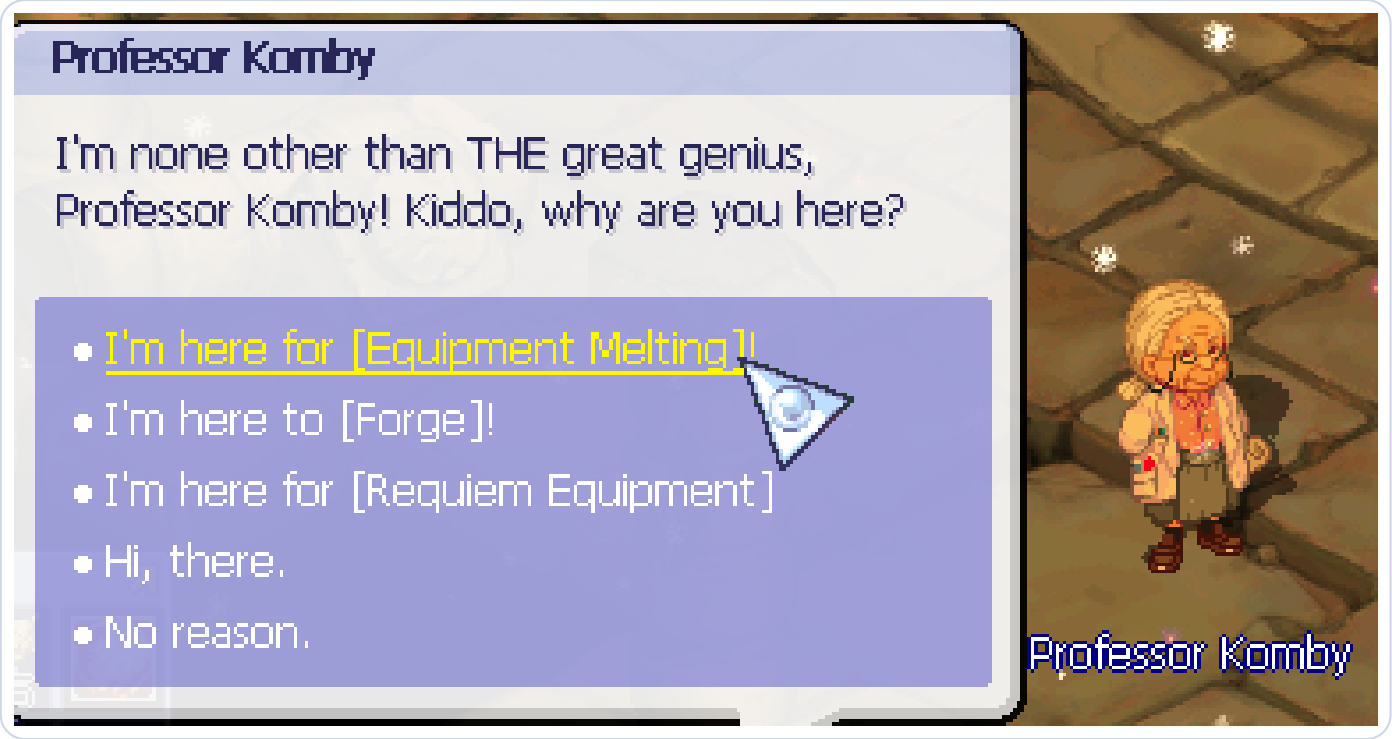

What is Equipment Melting?

Equipment Melting lets you sacrifice equipment to earn Melting Points. The total points decide the Melting Grade, and completing the process rewards you with a Grade Fusion Box.

Where to find it

LOCATION Gate of Chaos Tower

NPC Professor Komby

How to start

Talk to Professor Komby and choose "I'm here for [Equipment Melting]."

How Equipment Melting Works

Register equipment, build points, then melt it into a Grade Fusion Box.

1 Register equipment

Place the equipment you want to melt into the window. Each registered item contributes Melting Points.

2 Check your total points

The window shows both the points from each item and your Total Points.

3 Check the Melting Grade

Your total points determine the Grade Fusion Box you will receive. Grade 1 is the highest and Grade 9 is the lowest.

4 Pay the fee and melt

Press Start Melting. The registered equipment is consumed permanently, so only use items you are ready to lose.

Example shown in the screenshot

Four Otherworld's Crimson Necklaces give 486 points each, for a total of 1,944 points. This reaches Melting Grade 2. The displayed fee is 240,000 Galders.

Important

Melting destroys the equipment you register. Double-check the item list before pressing Start Melting.

Grade Fusion Boxes

The main reward from Equipment Melting.

Grades: 1 is highest, 9 is lowest

The better the Melting Grade, the better the Grade Fusion Box. Higher-grade boxes have a better chance of giving valuable Slot Expansion materials such as Nate's Elixir and Special Nate's Elixir.

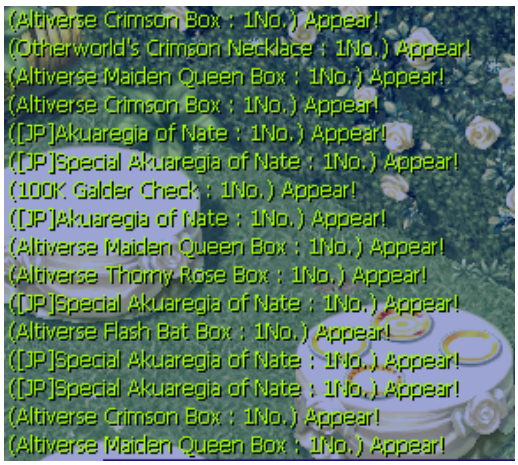

Example reward: Grade 2 Fusion Box

Grade order

Grade 1	Highest
Grade 2
Grade 3
Grade 4
Grade 5
Grade 6
Grade 7
Grade 8
Grade 9	Lowest

Possible box rewards

Why this matters

Grade Fusion Boxes can contain Nate's Elixir or Special Nate's Elixir, which are used for Equipment Slot Expansion. Other rewards may also appear, as shown in the loot messages.
